September M-Power Newsletter from NCADV

September 15th, 2020

I hope this finds you well and safe. What a year it has been, and we still have a few months to go!

As you know, we have moved the Annual Conference to a fully virtual format. While we know how important and necessary social interaction and networking is, we also, like the rest of the world, understand how important it is to ensure safety and comfort for all parties involved -- attendees, speakers, our conference team, and those that support the conference such as the hotel team, AV team, sponsors and others.

We look forward to our virtual conference, not as our “second choice”, but as a new opportunity to expand the event’s reach beyond geographic borders. A virtual option makes international attendance at Recognizing (Y)Our Power not only possible, but realistic.

A core group of the conference team are planning to be in St. Louis over the conference dates to broadcast portions of the event from the “gateway to the West.” Did you know this year marks 34 years since a NCADV conference was hosted in the city of St. Louis? The Honorable Lyda Krewson, Mayor of St. Louis, is so excited she shared a video with us to tell NCADV and our conference attendees all about it.

I am equally excited about two recent conference announcements. We have opened nominations for awards, so this is the time to brainstorm who you think has gone above and beyond to support survivors via advocacy, policy, and the media. In addition, we just announced our keynote speaker!

We are also still seeking scholarships and other sponsors. So far, we have been able to support four survivors to attend. We are always looking for more funds to make this opportunity available to those who want to make this conference a part of their healing and safety journey! The Survivors pre-conference is developed specifically for domestic violence survivors, always a full workshop, and led by the wonderful Doreen Nicholas of the Arizona Coalition to End Sexual and Domestic Violence.

We are aware that this is a busy time for you and the nation, including your work to raise awareness about domestic violence during October. We hope you will view the conference as an opportunity to rejuvenate, re-energize and spend some time with the fun items in your goodie box (for those registered by deadline).

Best, and Be Safe,

Ruth M. Glenn
President/CEO, NCADV

Top Three from D.C.: The Big Policy Takeaways This Month

1) Survivors and the 2020 Census

If survivors in your program have not completed the 2020 Census, there is still time! It is absolutely critical that every person in the United States is counted in the Census!!! The Census is a Constitutionally mandated count of every person residing in the United States. It is conducted every ten years and is used to determine how much federal funding communities get and how much representation they have in the House of Representatives. Census data is confidential and has robust privacy protections. Immigrants are counted in the Census, regardless of their immigration status, and this data cannot be used against them or shared in any manner with immigration enforcement. The Census can be completed online at <https://2020census.gov/>. More information for domestic violence programs and survivors can be found here. The last day to complete the Census is September 30.

2) Securing Survivors Needs in Next COVID Legislation

In May, the House of Representatives passed the HEROES Act, a COVID-19 relief package which included important but insufficient provisions to support survivors and domestic violence and sexual assault programs. In July, Senate Republicans introduced a competing COVID-19 relief bill that included nothing for survivors and direct service providers. After the White House and House and Senate Democrats failed to agree on a compromise package, Congress recessed without passing a compromise package. No one is certain whether Congress will ultimately pass another COVID-19 relief package. If you have not yet contacted your Members of Congress to ask them to pass a COVID-19 relief package that supports survivors, it's not too late! You can find a useful toolkit here.

3) Fiscal Year Ends 9/30

The federal fiscal year ends at midnight on September 30. In order to avoid a government shutdown, Congress must pass some sort of appropriations bill by then. The House has introduced and passed ten of twelve appropriations bills, but the Senate has not passed any. We very much appreciate Representative Grace Meng's (D-NY-6) efforts to attach an important VOCA fix to the House Justice, Commerce, Science, and Related Agencies bill. While House rules ultimately stymied this effort, we appreciate her championship! The most likely federal funding scenario is that Congress passes a short-term continuing resolution that continues to fund the federal government at current levels until after the election. Congress might also attach COVID-19-related provisions to a continuing resolution in lieu of passing a full relief package.

National Assessment on the State of Fundraising for Domestic Violence Programs

Has the pandemic and economic downturn taken a heavy toll on your domestic violence program? Are you worried about being forced to scale back your center's services just when they are needed the most?

You are not alone.

We understand how hard things are right now for America's domestic violence advocates and centers.

Although there are many things beyond our control right now as Americans, one thing well within our power as advocates is to step up our efforts to listen to and learn from one another.

You can play a leading role in making that happen by participating in the first-ever National Assessment on the State of Fundraising for Domestic Violence Programs!

In return for your participation, Sharify, Inc — our partner in this effort — will provide you with personalized feedback based on your survey responses that will help your organization meet its fundraising goals and survivors' needs in these challenging times.

Join NCADV in Signing Petition to Declare October 1st as Tillie Black Bear "Women Are Sacred" Day

Tillie Black Bear (Sicangu Lakota), Wa Wokiye Win (Woman Who Helps Everyone) gave hope and healing to generations of Native Americans and aspiring allies by participating in the initial organizing of the Violence Against Women Movement on a national level to change laws and policies at the root of these injustices and disparities. She inspired thousands from all walks of life to end domestic and sexual violence.

A movement is growing to celebrate her life with a National Day to honor her life and life's work. NCADV signed on to the petition declaring October 1st as Tillie Black Bear "Women Are Sacred" Day and ask our members to consider joining us.

The Positive Results Center (formerly The Positive Results Corporation) is looking for stories of Black people who have experienced violence, abuse, pain and/or harm of all ages and

By: The Positive Results Corp

LOS ANGELES - Sept. 9, 2020 - PRLog -- Many people have experienced violence and abuse, yet live in silence. Fear, shame, rejection and the thought of further abuse has kept secrets locked away from even our closest family and friends.

Voices of Truth project is an opportunity for those who have experienced violence or abuse to empower themselves, by telling their truth and as a result, help prevent someone else from a similar experience. Your truth can be anonymous if your prefer!

The Positive Results Center is looking for Black/ African (Americans) and their Descents of all ages and genders that are interested in sharing their truth for an upcoming handbook. This project will create awareness, helping to prevent violence and abuse, and assist people in healing.

Research shows that even brief autobiographical storytelling exercises can have substantial impacts on psychological and physical health even months after the storytelling. Resilience is strengthened by recognizing that we are all experts in our own lives and we all have something to share with others.

"Silence allows the violence to grow", says Kandee Lewis, Executive Director of The Positive Results Center. "We are seeking truth to the experiences of those who have been victimized, including: Signs of abuse; what others (parents, guardians & the general public) may not see, which is hidden in plain sight; concerning behavior to be aware of; and strategies for prevention that can help further victimization".

We are seeking information on all types of violence including dating, domestic & intimate partner violence, gun violence, sexual assault, stalking, sex trafficking, survival sex and sex industry, financial and spiritual abuse to name a few.

To submit your Truth go to <https://bit.ly/VoicesofTruth>

If your submission is selected you will receive a $50 Gift Card

Not all submissions will be published.

Deadline is September 22, 2020.
