

Have you been in West Africa lately?

Travelers to Guinea, Sierra Leone, or Liberia that have contact with a person who may be sick with Ebola, may be at risk for 21 days after their return.

These places are seeing more Ebola than usual. That raises travelers' risk of having contact with a person sick with Ebola. Ebola causes fever, diarrhea, unusual bleeding, and can lead to death. If you've been there recently...

Check for a fever twice a day for 21 days after leaving the area.

If you have fever or other signs of being sick, call your doctor right away. Talk about your travel. Ask the doctor to call the Los Angeles County Department of Public Health: 213-240-7941
