METH IN LA COUNTY
A GROWING PROBLEM

Meth use is becoming more common in LA County, and deaths involving meth are higher than any other drug in LA County. From 2008 to 2019, there were approximately 4,300 meth-related deaths in LA County, with a 66% rise in meth-related deaths from 2017 to 2019. From 2018-2019, more people died from meth overdoses than any other drug in LA County. And, meth is increasingly being found laced with fentanyl, a highly lethal opioid that significantly increases overdose risk. In addition, meth availability is increasing: from 2012 to 2017, the price of meth dropped 31% nationally. To raise awareness about the dangers of using meth and the help that is available for those who use, the Los Angeles County Department of Public Health launched the Meth-Free LA County campaign.
